

Faculty Folk Have Victory Gardens Made

Both Men and Women Are Planting Seeds Toward Increasing Production.

Are Having Fun With Work

Food Gardens and Morale Gardens
Are Being Planted—Food for Body, Flowers for Soul.

The faculty people do not intend to starve to death! Neither do they intend to become physically unfit in these critical times.

These facts were proved by interviews with various members of the faculty in regard to their Victory Gardens this year.

Miss Carol Mason, of the geography department, was more forthcoming than most people. She raised a garden last year and had many cans of fruit and vegetables to rely upon when the recent ration rules inconvenienced others.

She will raise a garden again this year, if she can get it plowed. As so many other people have the same idea about planting, Miss Mason anticipates that it may be difficult.

Mr. A. J. Cauffman, also of the geography department, is also an experienced hand at Victory Gardens. This year he is going to try to buy very little out of cans.

Mr. Leslie Somerville has an entirely different idea of what should constitute a Victory Garden. He says there are two kinds—moral gardens and food gardens.

"I believe that I can do my part to help keep up the morale of the people by planting a flower garden. This is the morale garden," said Mr. Somerville. "Saturday I planted roses. I have two different kinds of roses—tea roses and climbers. When these roses bloom this summer, the people who pass by will get a thrill, which will help to keep up their morale. Something beautiful is always worthwhile."

Mr. J. W. Hake, of the physics department, will have a very novel feature in the Victory Garden this year. He is raising sugar beets.

"I always have a big garden, but it will be larger this year," said Mr. Hake who, like Mr. Somerville, is not neglecting the "moral element," as he has 150 rose bushes in his garden.

Mr. M. C. Cunningham, Mr. Harold Neece, and Mr. Virgil Parman are pooling their seeds, efforts, and jokes by making one large garden which covers two plots of grounds. These three are raising seventy pounds of potatoes and large amounts of practically every other (Continued on Page Four)

"Finish School," Says Lieutenant

WAAC Recruiting Officer
Says Youth Can Serve
Country Better.

"I wish I could stress strongly enough to everyone who finds possible to stay in school the vital importance of finishing his or her schooling before doing anything else." That statement comes from a recruiting officer for the WAAC and continues: "As badly as we need recruits, and though I am a recruiting officer myself, I still stress that point."

The recruiting officer quoted is Lieutenant Hope Wray, a graduate of the College and a Maryville young woman. She says further, "We feel that the young people not only can help themselves to a greater extent (by finishing school), but also can be of more vital service to their country."

Is On Recruiting Tour

Starting the last Monday in March, Lieutenant Wray began a recruiting tour for the WAAC. She went first to Springfield, Missouri. Her work includes preparing newspaper advertising lay-outs as well as attending to personnel work.

In Lieutenant Wray's letter, she mentions having lunch with Lieutenant Day Weems at Daytona Beach, Florida. Lieutenant Weems, formerly of the physical education faculty of the College, holds a high position at the head of the physical training staff at Daytona Beach. She has forty-seven physical training areas under her supervision, according to Lieutenant Wray.

Congratulates Staff

The College alumna says that she has been receiving the Northwest Missourian regularly, despite her many moves. "I read it from cover to cover and especially appreciate the fact that it keeps me up on the STC students in the Service," she says. She offers congratulations to the staff of the paper, adding, "For every time I receive the paper, I can visualize the many hours of labor behind it." Hope Wray served on the staff of the Northwest Missourian while she was in college.

Accompanist for Dancers Has Strenuous Work to Do

During the rehearsal of one of the lively numbers of the dance program, Miss Ruth Culbertson, who accompanied the famous dance team at the piano, broke a finger nail which drew from her the comment, "That was hard on pianist's nails and dancer's feet."

After watching Miss Culbertson play the piano and four percussion instruments in a single number, one is forced to conclude that the pianist's job is a strenuous one. In rehearsing the dance "Unison," the pianist holds a mallet between her teeth, as she has no time to pick it up at the moment when she will use it.

Miss Culbertson has worked with Jan Veen for nine years. When asked if Mr. Veen was as temperamental as most artists, Miss Culbertson replied, "We have never fought. People who work have no time to be temperamental even though they may be great artists."

Miss Culbertson displayed a charming personality in the interview. She told of being born in northern Michigan and of living in Boston for eighteen years. She teaches music at Sarah Lawrence College, in New York City but she commutes from Boston to that city to study composition in Boston with Nadia Boulanger.

Miss Culbertson originally went to Boston in order to study at the New England Conservatory. She has studied with Schnabel in Berlin.

Miss Culbertson thought that this college campus was pretty. She liked the spaciousness and the trees.

Jan Veen Talks Enthusiastically About Dancing and His Experience

Startling statements such as "There is a great deal of fascism in dance," punctuated Mr. Jan Veen's conversation Wednesday afternoon while rehearsing for Thursday night's performance and talking to interviewers. Mr. Veen went on to explain his statement by saying the dance teachers are often like Führers. That is, the teacher expects the students to dance just as she or he does and does not consider the student's personal approach. Mr. Veen believes that students should be guided by their individual feelings when performing.

"The body, spirit, and mind must all be put into a dance," Mr. Veen said. Speaking about his school, he suddenly said "Oh, I have a motto! Would you like to hear it?" Of course, your reporter did want to hear it. The motto has three parts to it which correspond with his three year course. The motto is (1) "To transform body from a mere body to an instrument; (2) this instrument being capable, to fulfill the man from without; and (3) to fulfill requests from within." Part one applies to the first year of the course which includes amateurs and people sent to him by doctors, while part three applies to the third year of the course, which is concerned with the creative angle when the dancers compose their own dances.

Mr. Veen's school, he says, is the only one to train professional teachers as well as students. Navy lieutenants, defense workers, college students, people sent by doctors, and many other people come to Jan Veen's school in Boston. Students who come to his school to study for professionals must have credits in anatomy, applied anatomy, psychology, history, and appreciation of art and music.

Women Should Unpack
During the interview, Mr. Veen began unpacking costumes.

"I hate unpacking clothes and having to write down what I take

Wide Variety of Emotions Mark Work of Dancers

Jan Veen and Erika Thimey
Present Russian Ballet
Effect in Program.

"I felt as though I were at the Russian Ballet, except that there were only two dancers," was the comment of one person who saw the performance of Jan Veen and his partner, Erika Thimey, Thursday evening at the College Auditorium as the major entertainment of the spring quarter.

This comment was especially pertinent to the dance of greeting which opened the program. Light, colorful, and with traditional ballet costumes, it established cordial feeling between performers and audience.

Ballet technique was evident in the humorous dances on the program. Much pantomime came into them. "Three Minor Vices," which turned out to be gluttony, laziness, and gossiping, were of this order. The last one, "Gossiping," Jan Veen called his Post-Pearl Harbor dance.

"The Slave Dances," which were composed for a concert tour for Russian Relief, were beautifully costumed and vigorously executed.

The two dances based on the "Spanish Painters" suite were very striking in contrast. Some in the audience thought they lost a little in effect by the intermission which divided them.

Kenneth Simons Leaves Monday for Dartmouth

Mr. Kenneth W. Simons, of the Biology department, left Monday, April 5, for Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire where he is to report on April 8 for indoctrination. Mr. Simons was commissioned a lieutenant, junior grade, in the U. S. Navy Reserve, after the indoctrination period is over, he will go in June to Princeton for further work.

Mrs. Simons and "Sonny" will leave soon for Boonville, where they will stay with Mrs. Simons' parents until August when Mr. Simons will have finished at Princeton and be assigned to a station. Their furniture is being stored in Maryville.

Mr. and Mrs. Simons were guests at the home of President and Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin for dinner on Wednesday, March 31.

Dance Club Plans Annual Recital

Program to Be Presented
Develops From Work
Done During Year.

The Sixth Annual Spring Recital of the Dance Club will be presented at the College Auditorium, Thursday evening, April 15, at 8:15 o'clock.

The Dance Club is directed by Miss Wincle Ann Carruth, head of the Women's Physical Education Department.

The program will be a culmination of the year's work for the organization.

On the whole, the program will feature the modern dance, but folk dancing, and other types of dance will also be included. Individual choreography by the members of the club and by Miss Carruth will be presented.

An Allied Nations suite will include dances of many of the allied countries including those of England, America, and Russia.

The Dance Club will be assisted in some of the program by the folk dancing classes of Miss Maxine Williams and Miss Carruth.

Members of the Dance Club are: Hazel Ebersold, Connie Curmuth, Dorothy Cole, Betty Chaves, Emma Ruth Kendall, Alice Noland, Betty Drennan, Maxine Hoerman, Harriett Harvey, Jean Hefflin, Emma Poston, Betty Steele, Alma Ruth Steele, Charline Hornbuckle, Betty Jo Thompson, and Marjorie Neal.

Miss Dorothy Steeby is accompanist for the group.

The Dance Club is made up of all college women who like to dance. It meets every Tuesday evening at the gymnasium. The girls earn points for practices, performances, scholastic averages, offices, and individual contribution to the club. Medals, leotards, skirts, and plaques are presented to the girls as they complete the necessary points for each award.

There will be no admission charge to the recital. All college students and guests and the general public are cordially invited to attend.

Board of Regents Gives Summer Leaves to Two

Leaves of absence for the summer quarter were granted Miss Marjorie Elliott of the Home Economics department and Miss Margaret Owen, Assistant Librarian, at a meeting of the Board of Regents of the College, held in St. Joseph on Monday of last week.

Miss Elliott will do graduate work at the University of Chicago. Miss Owen will study at George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee.

Northwest Missourian Makes Red Letter Day

Via air mail comes a letter from Ensign Glenn M. Edmondson to say, as of March 21, "Today was an extra special day for me. Any day we get into port to receive mail is a special day, but today was extra because I received my first Northwest Missourian in two years. It was dated January 13, 1943, but it still was news from home to me."

From that paper he learned that Jim Powell had been in the same area with him, "although I did not know it until I read your paper," he said, "and Jim probably doesn't know it yet. . . . Quite a place it is!"

Ensign Edmondson does not say where he is, nor did Jim Powell in the letter reported in the issue of January 13; but both men evidently had been in the same island in the Pacific.

At present Ensign Edmondson is on a destroyer. He can be reached only by way of a San Francisco, California, Fleet Post Office. He asks to be remembered to his friends at the College.

Horace Mann Buys Six Motor Trailers for War

Bonds Bought Also Provide
One Parachute; King
and Queen Crowned.

Pledging themselves to buy War Bonds enough to provide one Motor Trailer as their part toward winning the war, the pupils of the Horace Mann High School kept their pledge and more. Instead of one Motor Trailer, they furnish six Motor Trailers and for good measure, one parachute!

Florence Hollensbe was chairman of the War Savings Committee, which was in charge of bond sales that, in total, amounted at the end of the sales period to $3150. The committee had learned from Mr. Dan Nee of the State War Savings Staff that one Motor Trailer could be bought for $500. The parachute was an afterthought to take care of the extra $150 that was raised.

Plans for the sales campaign included a contest for the classes: Junior High, Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, Senior. Each class also nominated a candidate for queen and a candidate for king. The Junior High, with $1285 to its credit won the contest and their candidates for king and queen were chosen to reign over the party, which was planned to climax the campaign.

The party was given Thursday afternoon in the Old West Library of the Administration building, with Floydene Hurst as mistress of ceremonies. A period of games preceded the crowning ceremony. Doyle Young, as trumpeter, announced the coming of the procession, which was headed by George Weldon, as flag bearer. Next came two small girls, Shirley Dietrich and Peggy Aldrich as crown bearers.

The king and queen, William Garrett and Julia Aldrich, the Junior High candidates, attended by the candidates from the other classes took their places and were crowned by Donald Jensen. The attendants were, for the Senior class, Alma Dahue, Lester Workman; for the Junior, Elaine Owen, Bryce Hall; for the Sophomore, Charlene Patterson, Tommy Clark; for the Freshman, Loretta Shelton, Jimmy Thompson.

Roberta Silvers announced the results of the contests. The Girls' Ensemble and the Boys' Trio furnished music. The crowning service closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Following the program, King William and Queen Julia led the Grand March, and the afternoon party closed with dancing and refreshments.

Ilah Mae Busby to Give Senior Piano Recital

Ilah Mae Busby of Maryville will give her senior recital in piano on Tuesday evening, April 13, at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the Horace Mann Laboratory School. Miss Busby is a pupil of Miss Alice Isley.

Miss Busby will open her program with the first movement, Allegro con brio, from the Beethoven "Sonata, opus 2, No. 3." This will be followed by two Chopin numbers "Scherzo," opus 31, in B-flat minor, and "Valse, opus 38, in E-flat Major."

Three numbers in the modern manner will close the program. She will play "Danse" and "The Girl With the Flaxen Hair," both by Debussy. The last number will be Leo Sowerby's arrangement of the old dance tune, "The Irish Washerwoman."

Miss Thimey Would Stay Whole Week in Maryville

Erika Thimey was having a wonderful time at a rehearsal the day before the program—trying costumes for lighting effects, helping Bob with the lights, and practicing occasionally. Her biggest worry seemed to be the fact that there were some holes in the curtain backstage. No one could reassure her that the audience would not look at the holes while she and Jan Veen were dancing.

Miss Thimey seemed to be quite enthusiastic about Mr. Veen's dancing. "It's exquisite!" she told all the lookers-on in her charming accent as he started rehearsing the Life Mask dance.

When asked if she ever went in for American Jitterbugging, Miss Thimey laughed and said, "Not really, but it's fun, though—sometimes. We do take-offs on it. And jitterbug dancing is really not so different from ours. We use bodily actions to express our emotions, too."

Miss Thimey explained that they varied their program somewhat to fit the audience and that their program for the College had a little of everything in it—"From the sublime to the ridiculous."

"I love Maryville," said Erika Thimey, "I'd like to stay here a week!"

Music Council Appoints Chairmen and Secretary

The Music Council, which represents a Federation of the musical organization on the campus, held a meeting in the office of Mr. Reven S. DeJarnette, Tuesday, March 30. Representatives from the band, chorus, choir, male quartet, and string ensemble were present to make up the Council. Betty Drennan was made secretary of the organization.

Members of the Council were appointed chairman of the following divisions: Publicity, Kenneth Combs; recitals, Mary Ellen Tebow; men and women in service, Margaret Baker; general college programs, Dorothy Cronkite; student welfare, Dorothy Steeby. The Council meets regularly every Tuesday at 11:15 o'clock.

Navy Announces SV-7 Program

Upperclassmen Majoring in Certain Fields Will Be Eligible to It.

College upperclassmen pursuing engineering or related courses are eligible for special officer commissions in the Naval Reserve, according to a new plan announced by the U. S. Navy.

Candidates will be selected from full time juniors and seniors enrolled in college courses leading to an engineering degree, or in courses leading to a Baccalaureate degree with major in Physics, Naval Architecture, Mathematics, or Electronics. Physical examination will be required in the special SV-7 group and will remain on inactive duty until they graduate.

For general service, candidates must meet strict physical requirements. For special service, relaxed eye requirements exist, including modified color perception standards. Eighteen sound tests are required with two molars in functional occlusion (closing) and not more than four incisors missing with satisfactory replacement.

Students should apply to the nearest Office of Naval Officer Procurement.

Research Associate in "Study" Visits Campus

Mr. Harold Dunkel, Research Associate for the Study in General Education, of which study the College is a part, was a visitor on the campus Friday. Mr. Dunkel was here for conference with the faculty.

During the day, the visitor met individuals and special groups. He spent an hour with the Directors of Personnel for Women and Men, Miss Marian Lippitt and Mr. Harold Neece. He had a conference with members of the English faculty.

Mr. Dunkel's particular interests in the Study are Reading Interests and Life Goals. At the faculty meeting held at four o'clock, he talked about the inventories which have been made for studying Life Goals.

Mr. Rudin Announces Speech Demonstration

Mr. John Rudin, head of the Speech Department, has announced that the Speech Department will give a demonstration of oral reading and use of the recording machine on High School Senior Day. This will be their contribution to the program.

"We are going to record some of the seniors' voices and then play the records and let the group hear how they sound," said Mr. Rudin. "Sometimes one doesn't know his own voice when he hears it."

Helen Brand visited at her home at Helena during the week-end.

Wish Boys Good Luck

It was a sad yet cheerful group which gathered at the station last Tuesday at midnight, to see the E. R. C. boys off. As the boys waited for the train they saw and heard a brave and cheerful assembly of people; telling them goodbye, and shouting foolish, last-minute remarks.

About thirty of the Enlisted Reserve Corps boys from the group of forty-eight, chose to leave Tuesday night, March 30, to report at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, March 31, for their first taste of Army life. The boys seemed excited with the prospect of what the morning had in store for them.

Among the group of about 100 well-wishers at the station were anxious parents of the boys, interested small brothers and sisters, concerned faculty members, fearful girl friends, and intimate friends. It was a strange, new experience for most of the spectators, and many of them hardly knew whether to smile or cry. The general spirit was

UEL W. LAMKIN

Teacher Salaries Are Being Raised

Patriotic for Teachers to Continue in Profession,
Says Mr. Phillips.

"Scratch hard, because I need some good ones," says a superintendent in writing to the Board of Recommendations at the College asking for help in securing teachers for this coming year. This man needs at least three teachers, and the salaries offered are good.

Salaries this year seem to be increasing. A few examples of the demands and the salaries offered are as follows: Music, $150 to $170 a month; band and mathematics, $180 to $210; intermediate grades, $160 to $185; high school principal, $165; agriculture with physiology and general science, $1200 for the year; English, with paper and publications, 2 years experience, $1500 a year; band and glue clubs, $1800; commerce, single teacher, $140, married man, $160; sixth grade, with junior high mathematics, $120; home economics, $1200 up; mathematics and physical science, $1350 to $1400; mathematics and science, $150 a month to $180; third grade, $1000; science, $1500; physical education for girls, with biology or typing, $1500 to $1600 for women; English and dramatics, $145.

One town announces eleven vacancies and offers salaries ranging from $115, up, to $175, up. The superintendent in another town writes, "Last year we had two of you—(Here he gave the name of two graduates of the College), and we want some more like them." This is in one of the northern states and the salary offered is "not less than $1400."

Mr. Homer T. Phillips of the Board of Recommendations, commenting upon the implications of the letters the Board has received from superintendents and school boards, said that it was evident that salaries were being raised. "Salaries for teachers are reaching figures where schools can now compete with war activity," he said, "defense work, the WAAC, the WAVES, et cetera."

"Teachers should be encouraged to see that teaching is a patriotic job," Mr. Phillips said, "and they should remain in the profession. Students should be encouraged to go into the profession."

The assembly next week will be presented by the String Ensemble and the Women's Vocal Ensemble. The String Ensemble will play "Rondo," from "Serenade in Four Movements" by Mozart; "Concerto in C major," for violin with string orchestra, by Valdi-Kreisler (first movement only); "Waltz, opus 48," by Tschalkowsky; and "Shepherd's Dance" from "Three Dances from Henry VIII" by Edward Gerhart.

The Women's Ensemble will sing "Mornrise," by Alphonse Ozbalka; "Slumber Song," by Francisco Migon; "My Johann," by Edward Greg; "All the Things You Are," by Jerome Kern; "The Way You Look Tonight," by Jerome Kern; and "In the Still of the Night," by Cole Porter.

Members of the string ensemble are: First violins, Margaret Baker, Mary Ellen Tebow, Ruth Ann Scott, and Ruth McDowell; second violins, Mary Virginia Wallace, Elizabeth Whitcomb, Faye Perry, and Irene Mumford; violas, Miss Alice Isley and Rosa Lee Glauser; cello, Mary Louise Dean and accompanist, Dorothy Cronkite. The conductor is Miss Ruth Nelson.

The Women's Ensemble under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Carter has the following members: First sopranos, Melba Selitz, Betty Lee Carter, Jodie Montgomery; second sopranos, Alice Marie Brown, Darlene Showalter, Shirley Anderson; altos, Dorothy Steeby, Vivian Wilson, Ruth Ann Scott.

Regular Assembly Is Held
At regular assembly this morning, the Future Teachers of America, new organization at the College, was presented its charter. The remainder of the assembly hour was spent in singing by the entire assembly audience.

Several Hundred Already Accept Invitation Sent Them by President.

To Bring Picnic Lunches

Programs, Demonstrations, Tours,
Dancing, and Recreation to Fill Their Day.

High school seniors from the College district will be on campus on April 12. Mrs. Jewell Ross Davis has been receiving acceptances which indicate that a good crowd of young people—several hundred of them—are interested in seeing what college is like.

From a neighboring state one superintendent wrote, "Could our seniors be invited to your celebration?" The invitation was sent off at once.

The fact that the youngsters are going to have to bring their own lunches seemingly does not worry them. Plans are underway to make the lunch hour a time for pupils from the various towns to meet each other.

Mr. Rudin has announced that his demonstration for the Speech department will be in the nature of phonograph recordings. He hopes to make records of the voices of the visiting seniors from high schools and to play them back.

The program committees have not announced complete programs, but the chairman says that plans are under way to have something of interest for the visitors. Faculty people will furnish the morning program and students the afternoon one.

Barbara Kowitz, president of the Student Governing Association, says that her student committees are all working. She is non-committal about what is being done, but sometimes it is more fun not to know details, she thinks.

Master Dance Class Is Conducted by Jan Veen

Jan Veen conducted a Master Class in Dancing from 10:00 to 12:00 a. m. Thursday, April 1, at the gymnasium. About fifty girls, including the Dance Club, were present.

Mr. Veen began the lesson by telling of his own experience in the dance and how he became a dancer. He told the girls why dancing would do for people of any age.

He then taught the group a series of calisthenics and dance techniques. After an hour of dancing, Mr. Veen gave a short resume of his night's program, telling the purpose, theme, and technique of each of the major dances on the program.

Without sacrificing editorial independence or their right to make independent judgments, editors and staff members of this newspaper agree to unite with all college newspapers of the nation to support, wholeheartedly and by every means at their command, the government of the United States in the war effort, to the end the college press of the nation may be a united voice for Victory.

THE COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us.

SENSE OF RESPONSIBILITY

Two of the W. T. S. flyers were scuffling at the west door of the administration building not very long ago. During the scuffling, one glass in the door was broken. Immediately, these two young men dashed into Mr. M. C. Cunningham's office and said, "We've spent money for something we can't eat," and then told him about breaking the glass. "We want to pay for it," they said.

Mr. Cunningham made inquiries as to the cost of the glass which was replaced. In the presence of the whole group of the men, he announced how much the bill was. At once the two men arose and one said, "I will pay $2.50 and he can pay $2.00." The bill was $4.50 and was paid at once by the two young men.

These two men have a sense of responsibility. Since they had broken the glass, they immediately gave the information that they had done so and said they would pay for the glass. They did not leave this for someone else to do but felt themselves responsible.

We students must have the same feeling of responsibility while in college and after leaving college to do things and see that things are being done without someone's having to tell us. We admire the conduct of these two men. Let us emulate it. Let us, too, have a sense of responsibility—not because we want admiration, but for our own self-satisfaction.

THERE IS DANGER

The April Fool edition of the Southwest Standard, newspaper of the Southwest Missouri State Teachers College at Springfield, is unusual in April fooling. The print is red instead of the conventional black. Drawings and pictures representing various members of the student body and of the faculty appear throughout the paper with "tall tales" about them under such headlines as "P. Connery Embezzles Funds From Standard," "Chauncey Has Charges of Hoarding Blondes" and others. A picture of a woman's basketball team, undoubtedly of years ago, appears under the heading "Next Fall's Football Squad."

Even though a paper such as this is entertaining, a danger lies in the fact that someone who does not realize the actual circumstances may believe what is said and as a result a rumor may start or even the thing be printed as actually being true. Such use of material would be very unfortunate for the person or persons concerned.

Quotable Quotes

"In 1950 the liberal arts college must have maintained the right to keep the word 'liberal' in its designation. This means the right to toss away what may have become useless and to add meanwhile whatever else has become 'liberalizing' in the education of the youth for a democracy after the end of the war."—W. Prewitt Ewing, national president of the William Jewell College Alumni association.

"The colleges must and will do their part to win the war, but they also have a part in the larger strategy of war and peace which they alone can play. They must conserve knowledge, teach the truth in more than contemporary perspective, promote the development of the individuals who comprise society and will shape its decisions." President Paul Swain Havens of Wilson college.

When

On January 4, 1906, Frank Deerwester was chosen for the first president of the Fifth District Normal School—later to be called the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College.

The first members of the faculty were chosen March 13, 1906.

Six acres of onions and early corn were planted on the campus between the Administration building and the President's Residence in March, 1910.

WHAT ONE SERVICE MAN THINKS

"I think it (army discipline) is very good for us, especially me. I no longer can carry on as I did around the College and make a fool out of myself. I very often wish I had had enough sense to realize what I was throwing away during that time. I have had occasion to use many things which I might have learned and will have many more in the near future. Sometimes I think this place is for brains and not for the likes of me. Physics is the worst; I'd feel easier if I already knew it."

TIMES THAT TRY MEN'S SOULS

In 1776, when defeatism was rampant in America, when George Washington himself was so discouraged that he wrote to his brother, "Between you and me, I think our affairs are in a very bad situation," a man whose name is unlabeled by many penned some words and published them as the first number of a series of papers under the title of "The American Crisis." Those words probably did more to combat the defeatism that was threatening to bring disaster to the American people in their battle for liberty than any other one thing.

"These are the times that try men's souls." The writer, an Englishman who had come to America after espousing the cause of freedom for the colonies, was a private soldier in the ranks. He knew what was happening, and he knew what to say. His words are applicable today. Listen:

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap we esteem too lightly; it is dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to put a proper price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as freedom should not be highly rated. . . . I call not upon a few, but upon all; not on this state or that state; but on every state: up and help us; lay your shoulders to the wheel; better have too much force than too little when so great an object is at stake. Let it be told to the future world that . . . when nothing but hope and virtue could survive, the city and the country, alarmed at one common danger, came forth to meet and to repulse it. . . . It matters not where you live, or what rank of life you hold; the evil or blessing will reach you all. The far and the near, the home counties and the back, the rich and the poor, will suffer or rejoice alike. The heart that feels not now is dead; the blood of his children will curse his cowardice who shrinks back at a time when a little might have saved the whole and made them happy. . . . 'Tis the business of little minds to shrink; but he whose heart is firm, and whose conscience approves his conduct, will pursue his principles unto death."

The Stroller

Elisabeth Whitecomb has resolved not to speak to brother Bob until his newly acquired crew cut grows out. If you have seen it (the crew cut) you can probably realize that this family feud might last forever.

Spring is still here, surprisingly enough. The Stroller is still expecting snow any day, though.

"Poor little monsieur! You wouldn't kill a poor little mouse, now would you?" Tears were in her voice, if not her eyes as Mary Frances Young rescued a little mouse from its pursuers in the Book Store. Gently she picked up the mouse by the tail (Ye, gods! Whoever heard of a female picking up a mouse?) and carried it outside so it might "run around beneath the bushes and grass and not be frightened," Mrs. Phares, however, put it, "so it can return to the Book Store to do more damage!"

The Dance Clubbers are head-over-heels in practicing for their recital. Don't forget that the big moment is a week from tomorrow night. (Paid advertisement, of course.)

Misses Williams and Carruth spent the week-end in Kansas City. They probably mixed a little Easter shopping with the Physical Education convention.

The Stroller is going to try to engage board and room at the home of Mr. Hake of the Physics department. That old hand at gardening is not only going to have a Victory Garden in the ordinary sense of the word—he is going to raise his own "sweetenins'." He is planting sugar beets. He probably will have to resort to "long sugar," but that won't be so bad if one keeps one's fingers clean.

Speaking of spring finery, the Stroller noticed a number of girls entering the Easter parade a little prematurely last Sunday.

The Stroller never could understand why the campus turned so religious around Easter time.

The Tri-Sigs and the Alpha Sigs entertained with informal dances last week-end. A good time was had by all. (Bromide? Yes.)

Plans for the annual "blood and thunder" campaign for student body officers are in the wind.

Only one thing, the Stroller thinks, saves Mr. Harold Neece's escapade from being forgery. What he did was to write to two well known seed houses and ask them for catalogs—all very well; but when he signed names to the request, it was not his own name. On one was the name of Miss Inez Gardner Lewis; on the other Miss Ruth Gardner Miller. (Somebody told the Stroller that he wrote it Miss Ruth Putnam Miller, but the fact has not been established.) The addresses given were those of Miss Inez L. Lewis and Miss Ruth P. Miller and to the commerce teacher and to Mr. Cunningham's secretary came messenger boys delivering catalogues they had not ordered. Probably the fact that he missed the middle name in each case is the only thing that saved the director of personnel for men from a charge of forgery.

Jan Veen and Erika Thimney presented one of the most enjoyable entertainments of recent times last week.

Incidentally, the creaky joints around the campus last week were caused for the most part by the Master Class in dancing taught by Jan Veen.

Spring is really here when the dormites play "hop-scotch" and go roller-skating. The girls will soon be indulging in a wild session of "Drop the handkerchief."

The Varsity Villagers are entertaining the fliers this week at an informal dance.

Senior Day is next Monday. The campus sheiks are looking forward to entertaining some of the high school girls.

Among the couples roaming the campus these days are Betty Dremman and Denny Davidson, Bob Aitkins and Emma Poston, and Mary Watson and a good-looking flier.

The feminine population of the campus seems to be breaking the monotony by acquiring the measles. Mona Alexander was first, then Ilene Walkup decided to continue.

Wilson College Provides Children's Play Center

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa.—(AOP)—Designed to prove that any community can provide wholesome recreation for its school children at a small cost, an experimental plan is being carried out at Wilson college.

Undergraduates have established a neighborhood play center in obsolete storage rooms on the campus. Students from nearby public schools are invited to the center to take part in programs of handicrafts, dramatics, sports and games.

"Such programs are needed throughout the nation to combat rising juvenile delinquency," Clara A. Hardin, instructor in sociology and chief adviser to the experimenters, declared.

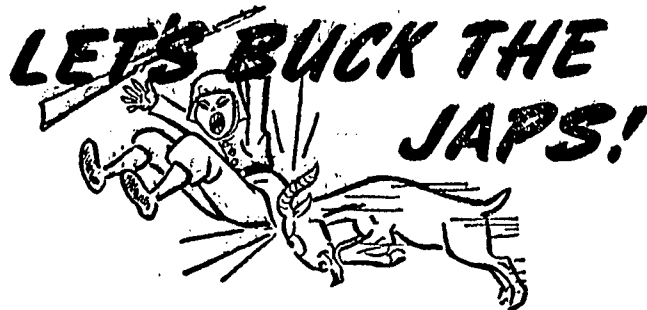

The Wilson college plan, she asserted, might very well act as a pattern for other volunteers interested in the problem of constructive leisure activities for America's youth.

Posthumous Honor Given Paul Person

Medal for Bravery Awarded Paul Person, Who Lost Life on Duty.

A medal was awarded, posthumously, this week to Major Paul M. Person, according to a dispatch from New York City under date of April 5. He was one of nine persons so honored, the other eight of whom were officers of the air force anti-submarine command, who were honored for braving storms and being conditions in more than 200 hours of hazardous patrol work.

Major Person, a graduate of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, lost his life, March 11, in a bomber crash at Langley Field, Virginia, where he was on active duty. He is the son of Dr. R. C. Person of Maryville.

No specific deeds are mentioned in the dispatch as being responsible for the award. Major Person had been assigned to foreign duty when the United States entered the war and was stationed for a time in Newfoundland. Bob Shankland Is on Way to Unknown Camp

Private Bob Shankland writes that he is on his way to some unknown camp. He passed his physical and mental tests in fine shape at Jefferson Barracks.

Mr. Fletcher says he has learned from southern boys, who are from Georgia and Florida, that the work he begins "will be pretty rugged." He is hopeful about it, for he says, "If I do my share of studying though, I imagine I shall get through O. K."

Private James Montgomery, who is with the Military Police at Camp Savage, Minnesota, is taking a correspondence course in American Literature, English 131, from the College.

Faculty Will Be Hosts to Upper-Classes, April 14

Annual Reception Affords Chance for Faculty and Students to Meet.

The annual Faculty Reception for upperclassmen will be April 14 at Residence Hall. The committee in charge of student affairs is sponsoring this formal event.

"There are few social occasions of this type on the campus where the students and faculty can mix together," said Miss Marian B. Lippitt, director of Personnel for Women, in announcing the reception. "This year," she said, "with such a small student enrollment the Faculty Reception will be an unusually good place to get acquainted with instructors."

Miss Lippitt explained that from her various inventories she has found that students of the College are expressing their desire to get better acquainted with their teachers. "The fact that the teachers have the same feeling about it," she continued, "is proved because they are continuing their plans with the Reception in spite of war shortages of all kinds."

The Student Affairs Committee is composed of Mrs. Hazel Carter, Miss Winkle Ann Carruth, Mr. Eugene Seubert, Mr. M. W. Wilson, Miss Maxine Williams, and Miss Marian Lippitt, chairman.

The class recorded the play on the recording machine so that they could tell how each person sounded.

Mr. John Rudin of the Speech Department is the teacher of this class.

Students Wishing Work Should Make Application

Various types of work will be available for students coming to college this summer, according to Miss Marian Lippitt and Mr. Harold Neece of the personnel department.

A girl may earn her room or board or both by living in a home where she may take care of children, do housework, or be a companion. Jobs such as waiting on tables in Residence Hall or elsewhere may be available.

Part-time jobs, as light housework, taking care of children, typing, clerking will also be available. An example of a job of this type is the following: a woman who lives near the College has three children and wants a girl to work for her part of the afternoons and evenings.

The number of regular campus jobs which will be available is uncertain as it is not definite how many of the present students holding these jobs at the College will attend this summer. Campus jobs include work at the library, at the bookstore, on the campus grounds, janitor work.

"Those who really need to work will find work available," said Mr. Neece. All who wish to work this summer, should see Miss Marian Lippitt, director of personnel for women, or Mr. Harold Neece, director of personnel for men.

Clothing Needed for Russian War Relief

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The American Legion and Legion Auxiliary in Missouri will conduct a statewide clothing campaign during April for Russian War Relief. It has been announced by Mrs. Eva S. Child, regional director for Russian War Relief.

Perry Compton, state commander of the Legion, said that the campaign is a voluntary thank-offering to the people of Russia, not a fund-raising drive. He urged that all Missourians share their clothing with the millions of Russian men, women, and children who have suffered deprivations during the course of two years of bitter fighting. Bedding, watches, and soap are being requested, in addition to clothing.

A state center from which contributions will be shipped to the Russian War Relief warehouse in Portland, Oregon, has been established at 300 East 51st St., Kansas City.

Betty Gay spent the week end in Kansas City. While she was there, she attended a convention for physical education people.

Eva Marie Calix was taken to the St. Francis Hospital Saturday evening where she is suffering from a throat ailment.

War Food Script and Film May Be Secured

College, school and other non-commercial theatre groups will soon be able to obtain scripts of the new play, "It's Up to You," which opens in New York on March 31.

The play—written by Arthur Arent, and directed by Ella Kazan, whose recent successes include "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "Harriet"—dramatizes the wartime food situation, including black markets, rationing, nutrition, and the dangers of hoarding.

Presented by the Skouras Theatres, the American Theater Wing, and a group of food industry associations in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture, the play will have its premiere in New York at the Academy of Music Theater which has donated its facilities for the show. For two weeks after its opening the play will be performed by New York theaters. No admission will be charged.

After that, the Division of Education Services of the Office of War Information will distribute the play on request to non-commercial theatre groups.

The script is done in the "living newspaper" technique, with short spot scenes, space staging, blackouts, loudspeaker voices, film sequences, and projected scenery. The film as well as the script will be distributed to interested groups. As the play is fairly difficult, a 25-minute version has also been prepared for theater groups who don't have the facilities to produce the complete 1½-hour long play. OWI officials report that each scene can stand by itself if theater groups want to do one section of the long version.

As well as the Skouras theaters in New York, 2,000 local theaters of this chain have donated their stages for use by any production group whose theater is not adequate. College theater groups can obtain the script and film by writing to Alan Schneider, Division of Educational Services, OWI, Washington, D. C.

Port Security Force Is Opened to Women

One more war service was opened up to women last week, when the Navy announced that women would be admitted to the Volunteer Port Security Force of the U. S. Coast Guard. This security force—hard at work in port cities all over the country—serves as a waterfront guard before and after working hours. The Navy Department intends to recruit women to drive and feed men volunteers, and do clerical work.

Like the men, women members of the force will rate uniforms, paid for by the Navy if they put in twelve or more hours per week at the job, and bought at their own expense if they work less than that. The uniform has not yet been designed.

Also like their male colleagues, women will be subject to military discipline while on duty.

Coast Guard officials report that quotas have not yet been set for all cities, but approximately one woman per every ten men is needed. In Philadelphia, for instance, where the Voluntary Port Security Force has about 2,000 members, 200 women volunteers will be recruited.

Women living in port cities who are interested in joining the Volunteer Port Security Force should watch for announcements in their local papers, Coast Guard officials advise.

Greek Sailors Received Only Nine Cents a Day

LOS ANGELES — (ACP) — The Greeks had an idea about paying enlisted men which does not jibe with Uncle Sam's, according to Dr. Arthur P. McKinlay, professor of Latin, emeritus, at the University of California.

"The Athenians paid their sailors nine cents a day, not through a lack of money but for fear some of them would injure their health by spending their money on things which bring on sickness." So spoke Alcibiades the general, 410 B. C., in Thucydides, VIII, section 45, Dr. McKinlay reminds.

"As for our own well-being and fighting powers," said Dr. McKinlay, "I would take a large percentage of the gross receipts from the sale of tobacco, wine, beer, whiskey and cokes and put it into a reserve fund to take care of the wastage of these businesses."

At the latest count, 1,109 alumni of Lehigh university were in the armed forces.

"BRING ON THAT ICE-COLD COCA-COLA"

"Letters come from war plant managers telling how a pause for Coca-Cola is welcomed by workers. If you had to stand up to a hot furnace, you'd see the word refreshment in a new light. And as for refreshment, that's what ice-cold Coca-Cola is. No wonder everybody agrees that the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself."

State Merit System to Give Examinations Soon

The "Help Wanted" sign has again been posted all over the State by the Missouri Merit System Council.

The Council, which holds open competitive examinations for all persons wanting to work for the Social Security Commission, the Unemployment Compensation Commission, and the United States Employment Service in Missouri, announced a new examination program today. The examinations are to be given for positions in which a serious shortage of qualified applicants exists. Especially urgent, according to Col. William H. Bartley, Chairman of the Council, is the need for visitors in the county offices of the Social Security Commission, and for interviewers in the local offices of the United States Employment Service. Examinations are also to be given for County Director III and IV, to fill vacancies in this class in many of the smaller counties; for Junior Research Analyst, in the central offices of the Social Security Commission in Jefferson City and for Junior Contributions Deputy with the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

The minimum salary for visitor is $100.00 per month in the rural counties and $115.00 per month in the large cities. Interviewers with the United States Employment Service, who work on the 48 hour week, receive overtime pay which brings their net monthly earnings to approximately $152.00. For both these positions, any person with a college education, or with certain types of experience to substitute for such education, is eligible. Complete information on all of the examinations is available at the Merit System Office, 125 1/2 E. High Street, Jefferson City.

The Council urged all eligible residents of Missouri to file application for the examination before the closing date, April 25th. Application blanks may be secured at every county office of the State Social Security Commission, every Missouri office of the United States Employment Service, and at the Merit System Office, 125 1/2 East High Street, Jefferson City.

Wide Variety of Emotions Mark Work of Dancers

(Continued from Page One) dance was portrayed by two solo dances, "Life Mask" by Mr. Veen and "Pieta" (Lament) by Miss Thimney. "Life Mask" was profound and philosophical in nature. "Pieta" was particularly excellent as an example of the Modern Dance, the dancer projecting her feeling to the audience in a remarkable way.

"Unison" received favorable comment. "Bewery Moods" was well done for the type of hoydenish dance which it was.

The costumes, designed especially for each dance by Jan Veen, were appropriate and added much to the effect of the numbers.

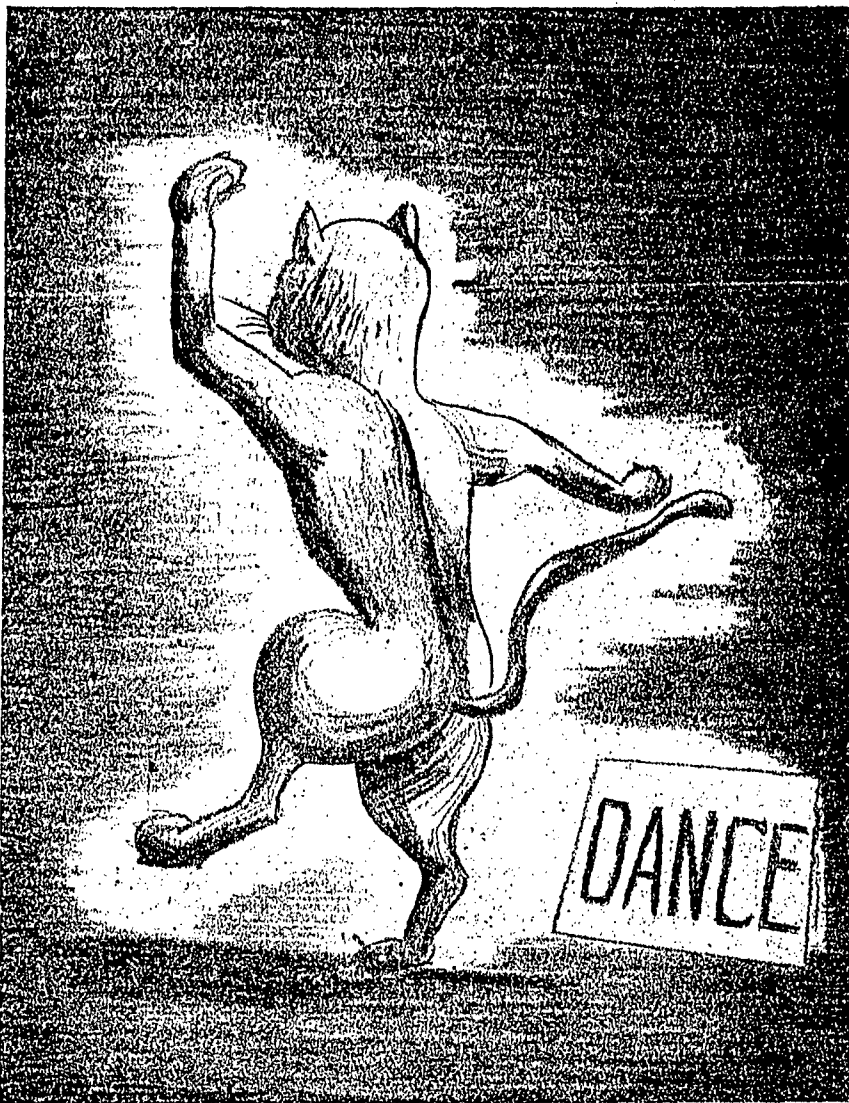

The work of Miss Ruth Culbertson, at the piano, was highly effective. The pianist was the third in what might be called a trio, so perfect was the sympathy within the group. She has been accompanying Jan Veen for nine years.

Maxine Hoerman visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Hoerman of Altamont, Missouri, last week-end. Her brother, Sgt. Fred Hoerman of Fort Riley, Kansas, also visited their parents.

Henrietta Keyes spent the week-end with her parents at Union Star.

Jan Veen's Influence

With competitive sports out for the spring and summer, the Bearcat decided to take Jan Veen's Master Class in the Dance and get ready for a competition of his own. He is still uncertain whether he will challenge the Bears or the Mules. He feels rather uneasy about challenging an Indian to dance—the war-dance being a specialty of Indians in general.

The Sound of an American Spring

"Well, spring's about here," said great-Aunt Matilda, when I stopped in to see her on my way home from the Red Cross workrooms the other evening. She was sitting in a patch of late afternoon sunlight on her side porch with a blanket over her knees, because there was still chill in the air when the sun was low. "See that," she said, pointing to the pink buds of a maple tree down by the gate. "And hear that!" There was the chirp of a robin hopping over the green grass. "And that!" From blocks away came the shout of boys playing baseball on an empty lot where they've played every spring since I can remember.

"Wars may come and wars may go, but there are always boys to play baseball down on Webster's meadow on evenings like this. And then I know that summer is really on the way."

"It's a pleasant, peaceful sound, isn't it?" I remarked, settling down in a corner of her porch swing. "And just to think this very same kind of sound is coming from a million or more other such lots all over the United States this very evening! It seems to be as natural to American boys to play baseball as it is to eat or sleep."

"And when they get past the age of playing it," Aunt Matilda observed, "they go to watch it or at least they read about it regularly."

Elizabeth Ann Davis visited from Friday night until early Monday morning at her home at Derby, Iowa. Her brother, Lieutenant Robert L. Davis of Fort Jackson, South Carolina, came home Friday night for a short visit.

"I wonder why it's only here in this country that this game is so popular. Other countries know about baseball. But they don't take to it the way we do."

"Maybe it's because it requires an unusual combination of individual resourcefulness and cooperation with a group, that it just fits us. It's every man for himself up to a certain point. Yet the team must work together."

"Come to think of it, you're right," I said. "The successful baseball player dramatizes one of our fundamental national virtues. His ability is the kind every American boy just naturally admires and tries to emulate."

"Yes," she replied, "say what you will, we're still a nation of individualists. We're having to work more closely together than ever right now and to give up a lot of our freedoms for the sake of the war. But by and large we're the descendants of men and women who went out to conquer the wilderness practically alone. And we don't want to be taken care of by anybody, even by our government—or to be told what to do. What we want, Susan, is freedom and a chance to work out our own destinies. And as long as the interest in baseball runs high all over this country and in those parts of the world where our young men are fighting, I guess, this traditional American spirit is likely to endure!"—Susan Thayer.

Two Faculty People Will Analyze "Inventories"

Dr. Harold Dunkel, who was a visitor of the College last Friday, is a consultant from the General Education Study Group. This group has worked out a series of inventories. One of these is a "Life Goal Inventory" which the freshmen took during fall quarter.

The results of these tests have been returned and Dr. Dunkel assisted Miss Lippitt in interpreting them. Any student who would like to have his own inventory analyzed should see either Miss Marion Lippitt or Mr. Eugene Seibert, it has been announced.

Fortune Telling Hobby Is Enjoyed by Student

Mona Brown, who enrolled in the College for the spring quarter, has a hobby which makes her quite a popular person. Miss Brown says it all started when Lelah Wharton, a sister of Mary Lee Wharton, of the College, attended Washington University in St. Louis. It was there that Miss Wharton learned the old trick of telling people's fortunes by the use of cards. Since Miss Wharton was an unselfish person, she taught Miss Brown the fascinating game.

Miss Brown says that it is truly a hobby with her and that she doesn't want people to think that she believes in it. She just thinks that it is fascinating and she enjoys the different reactions which she receives when she tells different people about their past and their future.

Miss Olive S. DeLuce, head of the Fine Arts department, spent two days last week visiting schools in St. Joseph.

Future Officers Take Examinations

Forty-Two Write on Tests Planned for Various Types of Service

Forty-two boys from the high schools of the county and from STC were among the thousands of high school and college men from all sections of the country who took qualifying examinations April 2, for the new Army and Navy programs being inaugurated for boys between the ages of 17 and 21.

Twenty-eight boys from the College and county high schools took the tests at the College Friday morning under the supervision of Dean J. W. Jones and Bert Cooper. Fourteen of these tried for the Navy College Training program, and an equal number signed up for the Army Specialized Training program.

The purpose of the tests is to aid in the selection of prospective officer material for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. The examinations were designed to test the aptitude and general knowledge of the candidates. Those who are selected, for either program, will attend college with all expenses paid by the respective services.

Students selected for the Army program must undergo further screening during thirteen weeks of basic military training before they are qualified for college attendance. Students chosen for the Navy program will be detailed directly to college.

Those attending college under either of the programs will be under military discipline on active duty in uniform, and will receive the regular pay. All expenses, including tuition, food, housing, books and uniforms will be paid by the Army or the Navy.

Those Who Take Exams
Those who took the qualifying examinations at the College are as follows:

Navy program: John Howard Carson, Jr., Robert Dean Lowrance, Lemuel Earl Osborn, Clark Elmer Parks, Kenneth Ray Parsons, Lynn John Shell, Robert Thom Whitcomb, all students at the College; and Bryan Lee Hansford, Hopkins high school; Garland O. Hendrick, Jr., Horace Mann high; Louis John Jernain, Edwin D. Merigan and Eugene Clifford Willis, all of St. Benedict's, Clyde; John Mark Parkhurst, Stanberry, and Robert Stevenson, Tarkio.

Army program: Edward O. Blakeley, Birney Durland and Robert Nelson, of the College; George T. Adams, Jr., Paul R. Babb, H. R.

Five Deeds

Five deeds I recall from my childhood, Five scenes of which I am ashamed:

The wall of a new-born infant, the imprint of my teeth in its hand;

A squealing, helpless, oleaginous squab, Crushed to death beneath my childish foot, Despite shocked remonstrances of my nurse;

The courage of a half-dead rat, As, with blood oozing from its mouth and ears, It backed against a wall, until it fell, As Harold and I beat it to death with sticks;

The cheeping of a fledgling thrush, As, desirous of keeping it always, I clipped its wings until they bled; The stolidness of a porcupine, with red blood flowing, Wounded by my thoughtless shaft, sped from my five-foot bow.

These scenes from my childhood still haunt me; These five deeds I shall never forget.

—Elizabeth Whitcomb.

Grandmother's Garden

Four o'clocks
Drowsing in sunlight,
Colors splashed
And mottled
Against the gray
Stone wall.

Hollyhocks
Basking in sunshine;
Buzzing and humming,
The bees
Visit each riotous
Colorful cup.

Mignonette,
Heart's ease,
Forget-me-nots,
Cluster together
Like shy, sweet
Children.

Cinnamon,
Yellow,
Rambler roses,
Blooming in afternoon sun,
Blending their colors
In motley parade.

Faculty Folk Have Victory Gardens Made

known vegetable—if they grow. Mr. Cunningham may be quoted as saying that they will be assisted by their wives and children who will furnish both the brainwork and the pestering.

One strict requirement for working the Neece-Parman-Cunningham garden is this year.

Mr. Frank Horsfall, of the Agriculture department, is staying with the essentials this year. According to him, essentials consist of tomatoes, beans, carrots, lettuce, and cabbage—and no flowers for the duration.

The agriculture teacher is abandoning his scientific learning somewhat in planting his garden this year because last year he thought he might be in the army by gardening time this spring and scientific gardening requires advance planning. "So," said Mr. Horsfall, "I am making a compromise with what I can do and what I know to do and hoping for the best."

Miss June Cozine boasts that she already has lettuce up. And this home economics teacher, who lives at the Home Management House is combining the food and morale garden. She has planted her lettuce in the flower beds, saying that it will be gone by the time the flowers are ready to need the space.

Miss Olive DeLuce, always a gardener, is at it this spring, getting her ground in shape for vegetables. Miss Blanche Dow says that Miss DeLuce has a love for garden tools and cannot pass a tool by without buying it. One source of annoyance to Miss DeLuce is the fact that her hollyhocks have over-run their space. Remonstrated with about grubbing them out because they would be so pretty later—morale builders—she replied, "Did you ever try to grub them out? You wouldn't think them so pretty if ever you did. I need their space for 'vegetables'."

Mr. Henry Foster is already busy in his garden. Radishes are already up and about ready to eat, to hear him talk about them.

Yes, the faculty folk are doing their part toward the Victory Garden move!
